

Key Education Publishing
Standards Correlation for Photographic Learning Cards—Talk About a Child's Day

This product supports the NCTE/IRA Standards for the English Language Arts and the recommended teaching practices outlined in the NAEYC/IRA position statement Learning to Read and Write: Developmentally Appropriate Practices for Young Children.

NCTE/IRA Standards for the English Language Arts

This product supports the following standards:

- 1. Students read many different types of print and nonprint texts for a variety of purposes. This product contains 46 nonprint texts—photographs—for students to read and discuss.
- 2. Students use a variety of strategies to build meaning while reading. The images and activities in Talk About a Child's Day help build a strong vocabulary and help build the expressive and receptive language skills that form the foundation for effective reading.
- 3. Students communicate in spoken, written, and visual form, for a variety of purposes and a variety of audiences. Students build their verbal communication skills as they describe and discuss the photographs in this product.
- 4. Students whose first language is not English use their first language to learn English and to understand content in all curriculum areas. This product is ideal for use with English language learners as the images can be used for students whose first language is not English to access vocabulary both in their first language and in English. In addition, all picture descriptions and activity instructions are available in both English and Spanish.
- 5. Students become participating members of a variety of literacy communities. Discussing the photographs and doing the accompanying activities in this product help teachers build classroom literacy communities.

NAEYC/IRA Position Statement Learning to Read and Write:
Developmentally Appropriate Practices for Young Children

This product supports the following recommended teaching practices for preschool students:

- 1. Adults create positive relationships with children by talking with them, modeling reading and writing, and building children's interest in reading and writing. The activities included in this product promote conversations between teachers and students and help build young students' interest in reading.
- 2. Teachers provide experiences and materials that help children expand their vocabularies. Discussing the photographs in Talk About a Child's Day helps students build their vocabularies related to daily life.

This product supports the following recommended teaching practices for kindergarten and primary grades students:

- 1. Teachers provide opportunities for children to work in small groups. Several of the activities in Talk About a Child's Day are designed for small groups.
- 2. Teachers provide challenging instruction that expands children's knowledge of their world and expands their vocabularies. Discussing the photographs in Talk About a Child's Day helps students build their vocabularies related to daily life.